Deadlock Over, 'Hot' School Bill Slated for House

By MARTHA COLE
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House
Rules Committee's deadlock over the school construction bill was reportedly broken today, and the big debate on federal aid to schools is expected to hit the House floor next week.

"And it will be a hot one," said Rep. McConnell of Pennsylvania, senior Republican on the House Education Committee.

McConnell said "there's no question" about the bill coming out of the Rules Committee next Tuesday. He said the bill may not begin until the following week.

Other sources said the bill was coming out and debate would start Wednesday.

Pending formal action by the Rules Committee next week, there was no indication how much time would be allowed for debate or what attempts, if any, might be made to restrict amendments.

Debate is expected to center largely on an expected proposal to bar federal funds to areas which segregate white and Negro pupils.

There had been some speculation that the Rules Committee, which includes several veteran Southern House members, might block House action.

But Speaker of the House Rayburn (D-Tex.) has been pushing for action.

Burned Out Three Times in 17 Months

DENVER, (AP) — You're a truck driver by profession, married and the father of five children—three girls and two boys.

Fires have burned you out of your home three times in a 17-month period, and not one was covered by insurance.

You've spent 31 months of the past five years in hospitals—You've had 13 operations—the most recent, ironically, on Friday, Jan. 13. Your left foot is paralyzed; a nerve was pinched in one of three auto accidents in which you've been battered.

You have no job. You walk painfully, and with crutches.
Money is running low. What do you do?

Thomas' first hint of what was to come was in 1950, when he awakened in the night, ill, and called his wife. He was bleeding from stomach ulcers.

After recovering from emergency surgery, in the following years he has:

Again had a ruptured ulcer, slipped six discs in his spine when a stairway collapsed, had a bone graft operation to repair the spine damage, suffered severe burns on his left arm when he ignited fuel-soaked papers in an incinerator, dislocated his neck twice, in auto accidents, broken a bone in his knee in a fall and, in still a third auto mishap, suffered a fractured hip, two fractures of the knee, broken ribs and a splintered shin bone.

Thomas, a Navy veteran, complains only of the pinched nerve in his left foot.

The doctors say it will be three or four months at the earliest before he can return to work.

UA Shortage Is Still a Mystery

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — University of Arkansas authorities still are trying to track down the source of a reported shortage of approximately $5,000 in a university bank account, Legislative Auditor Orvel M. J. Johnson told the Joint Legislative Audit Committee today.

Johnson read a letter from University President John T. Caldwell in which Caldwell said Dr. John T. Kane of the university had found an "accrual" of $2,093 rather than a previously reported shortage of $4,844 in one account.

Caldwell wrote that the difference arose from unrecorded transfers to the account from other accounts.

The university president added that examination of the one account was inadequate to show the true picture and that other current and former accounts were being studied.

Extended Forecast
For the period Jan. 20-23: Arkansas: Temperatures 5-10 degrees below normal. Mild-day 29-39 north and central, and 39-49 extreme south. No rain. A maxima 50-64. Colder northwest and warmer elsewhere Saturday. Colder Sunday. Warmer Tuesday and colder Wednesday.
Participation moderate to heavy with showers mainly Saturday and Sunday.

be held in Hempstead and two district 1-A board posts will be on the ballot.

and Albert Graves have expired.
Mr. Newbern who has served nine years on the board will not run again. His Post No. 2 will be sought by Jim LaGrossa who has already filed.

Mr. Graves has filed for re-election to Post No. 1.

The board re-elected James H.
Jones superintendent, a post which he has held since September 1942, for another two years.

Believe Ike Will Clobber Opposition

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON, (UP) — President Eisenhower's invitation to Republican Presidential hopefuls to go into state primaries merely invites them to be "clobbered" by the President himself, a GOP congressional leader said today.

In varying degree this comment reflected a widespread reaction to Mr. Eisenhower's statement yesterday that he will let his name stand in the New Hampshire primary even though he has not yet decided whether to seek a second term.

Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference he has "no objection" to entry of his name, but some states, California, Ohio and Wisconsin, among them, require a candidate's consent.

Press Secretary James C.
Hartley told newsmen that his morning conference he will "try to check" to see if the President also will "consent" in such cases.

While there were diverse interpretations of the news conference statement, these general conclusions were apparent:

1. Mr. Eisenhower encouraged state GOP leaders, where they have not already done so, to enter him in more, if not all, of the Presidential primaries in the 13 states holding them.

2. Most Democrats construed Mr. Eisenhower's frank remarks about the effect on his health of his September heart attack as fresh evidence that he will not run again. Republicans were divided on this question, generally along the lines of their prior beliefs.

3. The President clearly invited other GOP hopefuls, such as Senate Republican Leader William F.
Knowland, to get into the primaries if they wished, but—

"Everybody knows damn well they have not already done so, to run against Eisenhower," one powerful Republican in Congress said privately.

To Probe Sale of U. S.-Owned Plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposed sale of a government-owned synthetic rubber plant to Goodrich-Gulf Chemicals, Inc., will be investigated by the Senate Banking Committee, says its chairman, Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.).

Fulbright said yesterday that the filing of antitrust charges by the Federal Trade Commission against some major rubber companies last week was "a warning signal" that the inquiry is needed.

Among those involved in the FTC's action is the B. F. Goodrich Co., which owns half of Good-

Being a Successful Actor Is Not as Easy as Many Think— This One Came Up Hard Way

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Alec Guinness, regarded by many as one of the finest actors alive, regards his success with restrained enthusiasm.

"It's practically all due to lack of food and plenty of disappointments," he said wryly. "Believe me, they can be real incentives."

Critics praise Guinness for his chameleon-like ability to play any role. Perhaps no actor since the late Lon Chaney has used so many disguises.

Alec's roles have ranged from the third murderer in "Macbeth" to Hamlet. In "Kind Hearts and Coronets" he played eight different characters. In his latest film, "The Prisoner," he portrays a cardinal, who fights the brainwashing of a totalitarian government.

"I like variety in life as well as in the theater," he said. "I hate to be typed. If I see any danger of that, I make a dash in the opposite direction."

"Some people like to find a success formula and stick to it. I don't have a formula. I live from hand to mouth, from instance to instance."

Guinness also dislikes formulas in plays or films.

"Why should they always have to deliver a message, or try to make some final comment on life?" he asked. "Isn't it enough if an evening in the theater merely provides one with entertainment and something to talk about?"

"I don't know of any major problem in living that can be settled in two hours. Do you?"

Alec has a deep and sustained love of the profession he still feels he hasn't mastered after 22 years.

Red Technicians Reportedly Are Now in Egypt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser is said to have admitted into Egypt possibly 150 Soviet bloc technicians to help assemble arms from Czechoslovakia.

Diplomatic sources who reported this today said the number is five times the 30 experts Nasser originally estimated would be necessary to help get into operating condition the guns, tanks, jet planes and other arms.

The increase is a source of concern to U. S. officials anxious to hold the growth of Soviet influence in the Middle East to a minimum.

Egypt made a deal with Red Czechoslovakia last fall for 30 million dollars worth of military equipment, much of it now delivered. This increased tension in the Middle East because of its impact on the military balance between Israel and the Arab states.

American officials told Nasser at the time the Soviets could be expected to try to infiltrate Egypt with spies and political agitators in the guise of technicians.

The understanding here is that Nasser thus far has managed to avoid any political activity by the Red technicians.

ing a total of $50,000 in personal da-from an accident involving a CTC

Police Spread Search for a Mad-Dog Killer; Witnesses Who Convicted Him Guarded

EVANSVILLE, Ind., (AP) — Police in three states searched grimly today for Leslie Irvin, described as a "mad dog" killer who escaped from jail while under ven-dette of death for one murder and indictment for five others.

The hunt was concentrated in the Evansville area and in nearby sections of Kentucky and Illinois.

Illinois state police put out a state wide alert for Irvin last night after authorities at Watseka, Ill., said they had reports he had been seen in a Watseka Tavern.

Meanwhile, law officers and witnesses in Irvin's murder trial were given police guards as they hunted the 31-year-old former Evansville pipefitter.

Irvin, convicted of killing an Evansville man and also charged with killing two Indiana women and three members of a Kentucky family, had been scheduled for transfer Monday to the Indiana State Prison at Michigan City to await execution in the electric chair June 12.

Irvin, held in jail at nearby Princeton during the appeal period which followed his conviction and sentencing in Gibson Circuit Court, was missing at breakfast time yesterday.

Four jail doors had been either unlocked or locks picked. Sheriff Earl Hollen said, "There had to be some outside help," adding one man could not have opened the doors himself from the inside.
The heaviest snowfall of the winter quickly covered his tracks.

Warmer Air to Move in This Afternoon

By The Associated Press
Warmer weather was expected to move into Arkansas today, erasing the traces of the state's first general snowfall of the winter.

A light snow flurry fell at Little Rock briefly this morning but the U. S. Weather Bureau said no further snow was expected in Arkansas.

This afternoon's high temperature readings were expected to range from the low to high 30s, while the low readings tonight were forecast for the low 20s to mid 30s.

Temperatures dipped below the freezing level in most areas again last night. Gilbert recorded a minimum reading of 5 degrees.
Filipin 7, Walnut Ridge and Fayetteville 12, Fort Smith 15, Little Rock 27, Texarkana and Dodge 28, Pine Bluff 31.

The snow-freezing cold preserved remnants of the snow and sleet which blanketed Arkansas Tuesday and Wednesday, but State Highway Department crews early last night had cleared the slick, dangerous coating off all roads.

Four highways which had been blocked by the heavy fall were opened, and State Police headquarters reported all roads safe for travel.

The highways closed by snow were state Highway 10 east and west of Perryville; state 11 north of Batesville; state 7 between Harrison and Jasper, and U. S.
Highway 62 between Harrison and Gateway.

At least one life was lost because of icy roads. Andrew Hebert, 34, of North Little Rock, was injured fatally when his car skidded on U. S. Highway 62 near Clarksville and collided with a truck.

Two men narrowly escaped injury at Russellville when a lumber shed collapsed under the weight of snow. Leon Satterfield, owner of the shed, said he and an employee were leaving the structure when it tumbled down. He estimated his loss at $10,000.

The snow reached a depth of more than six inches in north Arkansas, forcing the closing of some schools and at least one factory.
Oberman Garment Co., shut down its plant at Harrison yesterday.

Most of the schools are expected to re-open today, but some of them will remain closed until Monday.

The snow and sleet was Arkansas' first precipitation of the new year. At the end of the first 17 days of 1956, the state's average rainfall was 2.80 inches below normal.

State Retail Sales Total $1.3 Billion

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Retail sales in Arkansas during 1954 totaled $1,339,633,000, the Arkansas Economic Council-State Chamber of Commerce reported today.

Food Stores accounted for the largest sales, $299,033. The automotive group was next with $280,949, followed by general merchandise, $148,954, and furniture and appliances, $38,923.

This was about $4.50 a week higher for each type worker than
at the end of 1954, and up 30 cents a week from November. In terms of purchasing power the worker was able to buy 6 per cent more with his pay during 1955 than he could in 1954. The largest annual increase since World War II.

The December index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics was 114.7 per cent of the figure for the 1947-49 base period. This is a fraction higher than in December, 1954.

The bureau reported that average gross weekly earnings, spend-able pay and wage purchasing value of factory workers all rose to a new record level in December.
Spendable earnings, or gross pay less tax deductions, rose to an average $85.79 for the single worker and to $73.15 for the worker with three dependents.

This was about $4.50 a week
higher for each type worker than
at the end of 1954, and up 30
cents a week from November. In terms

Ship Hits Radar Isle Off Texas, 42 Endangered

By The Associated Press

SAGITTA, a Military Transport Service ship, rammed into the Texas radar island off Cape Cod today while attempting to unload supplies in heavy seas. The ship radioed it was "listing seriously" and its 42 crewmen were "standing by the lifeboats."

The vessel was reported trying to make port despite a hole in her starboard side.

An air defense spokesman who contacted the tower, some 100 miles off the Atlantic coast, by telephone said that none of the 42 officers and enlisted men stationed at the radar observation post had been injured.

"There is no danger of the tower falling into the sea," he said.
He said the weather at the scene was "not bad" but the Coast Guard reported four to seven-foot seas whipped by 14 mile per hour northeast winds. It said visibility was limited by snow and rain.

The Sagitta hit the radar station while trying to unload fuel and water onto the three legged tower on George's bank.

The accident occurred at 9:40
a. m. EST.

Shortly before noon, the Sagitta radioed that she was starting for Boston under her own power at five knots.

The Coast Guard said the 153-mile trip in the heavy seas would take about 10 hours. However, it was expected the Coast Guard Cutter Evergreen would intercept the Sagitta and take her in tow.

The El Sol, a tug owned by the Raymond De Long Co., which helped build the tower, left Boston for the scene at noon.

A blinker message from the ship to a Coast Guard amphibian said,
"We are okay."

The Air Force reported the Sagitta was "listing, but there is no definite emergency." An Air Force helicopter stood by at Truro on the outer arm of Cape Cod to furnish aid if needed.

Douglas Starts Long Speech on Gas Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) starts today a Senate speech he said will take him three or four days to finish.

He spoke in opposition to the natural gas bill, which would exempt producers of natural gas from direct regulation by the Federal Power Commission.

"I am not trying to talk the bill to death but I do believe in a thorough presentation," he said.
"It's very complicated, yet simple, so I decided to treat it adequately."

Douglas told newsmen his staff has been working six months assembling what he called "the best collection of figures and most thorough analysis" he has seen on the bill. His staff studied 1,500 producer contracts as part of its research efforts, he said.

Senate debate on the measure, a companion to a bill which the House passed by a 208-203 vote last year, entered its fifth day.

In a 40-page first installment of his prepared speech, Douglas called the measure a "bad bill" which he said "would gouge the consumers of 600 to 800 million dollars and raise the valuation of the known gas reserves by from 12% to 30 billion dollars."

Grant Is Made to Arkansas College, Says Pilkinton

The Board of Christian Education of the Southern Presbyterian Church, with headquarters in Richmond, Virginia, has made a grant to Arkansas Presbyterian College at Batesville for a study of the future program of the college and its relationship to the church in the state of Arkansas.

The grant was announced by Dr. Hunter B. Blakely, Secretary of the Division of Higher Education and came as the result of a request made by James H. Pilkinton of Hope, Moderator of the Synod of Arkansas, Presbyterian Church in the United States, and other friends of Arkansas College in this Local Presbyterians expressed satisfaction and pleasure when they learned of the grant today.

Chevrolet and Ford Blamed by Monroney

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mon-roney (D-Okl.) said today the "White-hot race" for auto sales supremacy between Chevrolet and Ford caused "many of the troubles now plaguing the auto industry and its dealers."

The senator made this comment in an interview as the Commerce subcommittee on automobile marketing he heads scheduled its second hearing on charges of abuses in car selling practices.

Monroney said that in talking to car dealers privately in preparation for his hearings, he had found many who blamed the Chevrolet-Ford contest for abuses.

After Chevrolet had held the lead in industry sales for about two decades, it was challenged heavily by Ford in 1954. The outcome was so close both sides claimed victory using different sets of figures.

Chevrolet was victorious last year on the basis of unofficial sales figures, although Ford was a close second.

The Oklahoma senator said it appeared to him that the race contributed to car "bootlegging,"

Ike Declares He'll Never Be the Same

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has given the country plain notice he will never again be quite the man he was before, physically, and that henceforth he must avoid undue fatigue.

Although he says he still hasn't made up his mind on running again, his concern about his health has run through everything Eisenhower has told newsmen, even as long ago as last August, before his heart attack.

He said yesterday: "It would be idle to pretend that my health can be wholly restored. My future life must be carefully regulated to avoid excessive fatigue."

While he has decided to let his name stay in any state presidential primary where it may be entered, he practically invited all Republicans would-be presidents to go into the state primaries to give voters a wide choice.

He no doubt meant this as encouragement to all of his party's presidential hopefuls to get active. But it may have had the effect of sapping their blood. In almost any state primary against Eisenhower they almost certainly lose.

Newsmen who went to his news conference yesterday were not surprised when he left them still guessing on whether he'll run again. He said he hasn't decided and won't for a while.

It was last summer—weeks before his heart attack—Sept. 24—that Eisenhower began raising questions about his health when asked about seeking a second term.

In August he spoke about the ending of the presidency on the grounds of the White House and said when he had no reason to expect a heart attack, that the state of his health would be a major factor in his decision on running.

Just concern about his health appeared in statements he has made since then. He has noted that no man has reached 70 in the presidency. He'd be 70 three months before the end of a second term.

He has said the presidency is more wearing than any military assignment he ever had. He told newsmen Jan. 9 he would have been capable of avoiding fatigue. He has emphasized his decision would be based on what is good for the country.

Albino, that's how he has said it is a "very critical thing to change governments in this country at a time that it is unexpected," a statement which could only mean it is critical if a president dies in office or, for health reasons, can't carry on with his job.

Chickens Best Food Buys of Weekend

By The Associated Press
Chickens for broiling or frying will lead the list of bargain specials in many of the nation's food stores this weekend.

Prices are down almost everywhere. Reactions in major cities, chain store outlets include New York, six cents a pound; Pittsburgh, two cents; Boston, four cents; and Detroit, two cents.

Lower prices for sirloin steak, beef rib roast, pork and lamb also are posted. Turkeys are featured in some areas; swordfish steaks are among bargain-price seafood items.

Low broiler prices were attributed to stepped-up production on poultry farms. Wholesale prices in the Delaware-Maryland-Virginia area are 10 cents a pound below a year ago and 17 cents under the peak of last March.

There aren't so many outstanding buys in produce this week. Some of the more popular fruits and vegetables are no longer plentiful and a severe cold wave in Florida has boosted citrus prices.

Grapefruit is in good supply, despite the frost. Oranges and tangerines also offer excellent value, although here and there prices may be up.

Market specialists have tagged potatoes, onions, lettuce, collards and kale as outstanding buys in vegetables.

Just a Corpse at Twilight

THE STORY: James Bennett, investigator for the State Industrial Welfare Commission, is trying to obtain permission for an autopsy on Frank Osborn, who died six months before. Coroner Dick Jarretto who also was Osborn's physician, objects to an autopsy.

CHAPTER V

Mrs. Frank Osborn answered the phone in a voice that could be either middle-aged or young, just a soft female voice, neither husky nor shrill, a voice saying, "Hello," quietly, waiting with mild anticipation to learn who was on the line.

"Mrs. Osborn?"

"Yes."

"I'm sorry to bother you at this hour, but—"

"Oh, you're not bothering me. I'm waiting for some friends to call for me."

"Yes, you see, Mrs. Osborn—"

"If you're the man about the house insurance I've decided to renew again for another three years. If you will mail me a statement I'll send you a check."

On the body of your husband."

For maybe 20 seconds there was silence on the wire. Then she said why?"

"The commission feels it's necessary, in fairness to all concerned, to establish the cause of death."

"But the doctor said Frank died of a heart attack."

I said carefully, "Mrs. Osborn, it will be merely a medical examination, a routine matter, conducted with the utmost respect. The commission feels that there is a reasonable cause for doubt, and—"

"I don't understand, Mr. Bennett."

Mrs. Osborn's voice was nice, but she had an annoying habit of interrupting. "You see, if we establish that your husband's death resulted from the industrial disease from which he suffered for three years, and not from the heart condition as stated on the death certificate, you will be entitled to the widow's indemnity of $10,000. However, in all probability the cause of death as stated is correct. But the state wishes to clear the records and—"

"I really don't know what to say. My husband left me fairly well provided for, but one can always make use of money, and I

Boy 10, Drives Off in Switch Engine

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ten-year-old Richard Wynn, who said he "just wanted to go," drove off in a Pennsylvania railroad switch engine last night while his two operators were eating in a nearby shanty.

Crewmen A. J. Frecko and William S. Richards saw their 225-ton diesel engine rumbling off with the 80-pound boy at the throttle and gave chase.

The pursuit ended in about 1,000 feet when the engine ran into a parked locomotive and stopped with no damage to either engine.

The boy tried to flee but was caught after he lost a shoe and fell.

The crewmen said Richard apparently had pulled everything in sight on the engine until he found the throttle.

He was taken to juvenile detention home.

don't think Frank would mind. Do you think he would mind, Mr. Bennett?"

"I'm sure he wouldn't," I said quickly, "not if he knew it might benefit you. All we ask is that you sign a release certifying that we have your permission to do it. I paused and thought fast, like any salesman trying to close a deal.

"I'll bring it out right now, if it is convenient."

"No, I'm afraid not. Neighbors from down the road were kind enough to ask me to go with them to a bingo party at the church at Indian Landing. Could you come out tomorrow?"

I hesitated. Saturday was not a working day and I'd planned on sleeping late, and then trying for some trout in one of the cold little hill streams north of Steel City.

"How will it be if I sign it and send it back to me?"

"Well," she said slowly, "I guess that will be all right."

"It's quite all right. By the way, the file on your husband states that Dr. Richard Jarrett attended him. Is he your regular physician?"

"Oh, yes! Dr. Dick is more of a friend than a physician. He and Frank knew each other in college."

"Then you feel that he was correct in his diagnosis of the cause of your husband's death?"

She hesitated for just a second. Then she said quietly, "Why, do you ask that?"

"Just routine," I said smoothly. "The autopsy will definitely settle it. Mr. Tweed in Beech Tree has kindly consented to let us use his facilities."

"Wilbur?" She sounded surprised.

"Yes, I understand he was at your home the night your husband died?"

"That's right, Mr. Bennett. I'd planned a sort of little party, after a Christmas play presented by the children at the school. I—I wanted to do something for Frank. He'd been rather despondent and I thought it might cheer him up to get out and mix with people. And he did enjoy the evening, and seemed happy. And then—"

Her voice broke.

"You have my sympathy, Mrs. Osborn," I said. "It must have been a tragic shock to you."

"Yes, even though Dr. Dick warned me that it might happen any time." Her voice was steady now. "When do you plan to do this—this autopsy?"

"Next week some time—I don't know just what day."

"To be quite frank," she said, "right after my husband died I asked Dr. Dick about an examination to make certain of the cause of death, but he assured me that it wasn't necessary. He said there was no doubt that Frank had died of a heart attack, that he would stake his professional reputation upon it."

I said, "Did you have any particular reason? I mean for asking about a post-mortem examination?"

"No, not really, I guess. It was just that he died so—so suddenly. He was beside me one moment, laughing and talking with the others, and then he was gone. No—no warning at all. But Dr. Dick said it was typical of a coronary."

CTC Withdraws Threat to Service

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A threat to discontinue bus service in Little Rock and North Little Rock was withdrawn by the Capitol Transit Co., yesterday shortly after the Little Rock City Council began an investigation of the firm's financial status.

In a statement released at the close of the first hearing, CTC President P. E. Askey said his firm would continue indefinitely to operate intercity buses in both municipalities. Last Tuesday Askey had demanded that both cities grant an immediate 2-cent increase in fares, and threatened to discontinue service at midnight tonight if his demand wasn't accepted.

Think Congress Should Decide Ike's Running

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Several senators agreed with President Eisenhower today that Congress should look into the question of who is to decide whether a president is unable to perform his duties.

Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.) said the Constitution and the laws contain a gap which "might sometime rise up to cause confusion and uncertainty," and he added:

"The best time to act is when we do not have that kind of situation before us, and I favor Congress working out some kind of satisfactory solution."

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) said in a separate interview he considers it "desirable to see if we can't find a satisfactory solution," and Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.) agreed "it's a question that ought to be studied."

At his news conference yesterday, Eisenhower was asked if he had given any thought to the Constitution's silence on the question of who should declare a president unable to perform his duties.

He said the subject should be carefully studied by Congress and the attorney general, adding it would be good for the country to work out the matter so that doubt would be resolved.

YOKOSUKA, Japan, (UP) — The first of the 852 unknown American dead of the Korean war were on their way "home" today.

The cruiser USS Manchester sailed for Honolulu with 50 American sailors, soldiers, airmen and Marines who died in the three-year war against communist for burial in American soil. Their final resting place will be the National Memorial Cemetery in Honolulu.

All four services paid tribute to the unidentified dead in a solemn 45-minute dockside ceremony. Four flag-draped caskets on the cruiser's deck symbolized the unknown dead of the Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force.

Thirty-six jet planes of the Army, Navy and Air Force flew over in a roaring final salute. A volley was fired by the four-service honor guard.

LONDON, (UP) — The widely-publicized drug "tonic" (pyridoxine) is of no value in the treatment of baldness, several doctors reported to the British Medical Journal today.

A letter from a Scottish doctor to the magazine 15 months ago claimed that two patients had grown hair after being treated with the drug, which is normally used for circulatory ailments. Subsequently, tests were made under strict control conditions.

DOROTHY DIX

Rebellion Only Course For This Doormat Wife

"Dear Miss Dix: I have been married a little over four years and am now 23. We have two daughters, one three and the other a few months old.

Since my marriage I have had in-law trouble. My mother-in-law doesn't like me, has never tried to and has never tried to pretend she does.

My husband is always cross, irritable and strikes me if I so much as disagree with what he says. He doesn't like the people I like and won't take me to meet the people he likes. I lost all my old friends because he is unpleasant around them. He says a woman's place is in the home and she should be content just to wait on her husband, wash, iron, keep house and tend the children. He doesn't think I have any need for friends.

Nothing, absolutely nothing, I do please him or wins a word of praise. I've tried reasoning with him and he says I just have to put up with anything he wants to do. Is it right for marriage to be so one-sided?

AGNES R.
Answer: By an act of God you also belong to the human race, though your arrogant husband apparently believes otherwise.

What in the world does a man like this have that appeals to a woman in the first place? How can he make himself agreeable during courtship, then reverse things so completely? Did he show any evidence of his true disposition before? Heeding some of these signs might have saved you a lot of trouble. However, it's the future that concerns you now; the path is dead and gone.

Domestic Tyrant

Face the fact that you're married to a domestic tyrant. This may be defined as a man too cowardly to stand up to his physical equals, yet so egotistical he must lord it over someone; the logical someone is his wife, of course. If she happens to be a creature of great timidity, he's assured of a wonderful time. The more she gives in, the more he can impose on her. The meeker she gets, the more despotic he becomes. Yet if she rebels he's lost.

Get up enough courage for open rebellion, which is certainly the only course open since arguments have failed. Prove yourself equal to him in mental and emotional strength and his defenses will fall. Should he resort to physical strength in you resort to the law.

Dear Miss Dix: I have been writing to a soldier in Europe for the past five months. We've never met, but have exchanged pictures. Now he wants to marry me and says he will kill himself if I don't agree. I have not encouraged him

No Matter the Experience, Bless It

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — "No matter what the experience is, bless it."

Buddy Ebsen heard that quote on a religious broadcast over his car radio the other day, and he confirms it as his philosophy. Buddy has had plenty of ups and downs in his 27-year show business career, and now he blessed the lessons he learned in his low periods.

He can afford to. His career is at its peak. He became a well-known figure in most American households as Davy Crockett's sidekick George Russell. He'll soon be seen in another Walt Disney story, "Corky and White Shadow," to be serialized on the Mickey Mouse Club. At present he's doing a dramatic role in a war movie, "Fragile Fox."

Between rehearsals he recalled days when he wasn't doing as well. "I was out of pictures for five years," said Buddy, who started in films 20 years ago dancing with his sister Vilma. "I was a year in 'Good Night Ladies,' which set records for long runs in Chicago. Then I was in the service for three years. After that, I toured in the revival of 'Show Boat' for a year."

He came back to Hollywood to try his luck at pictures again. But his agent always met this inquiry from producers: "Why hasn't he been working in pictures?" The agent told about Buddy's five-year stretch, but the question was repeated: "Why hasn't he been working in pictures?"

Said Buddy: "They figured something must have been wrong. If anybody is out of pictures that long, they suspect there is a reason."

At one point a tip executive advised Buddy to find another line of work. But at this low period in his career he was fighting mad and wouldn't consider it.

He managed to support his wife with occasional vaudeville, night and daughters he now has five. He landed a plum role in "Night People" with Gregory Peck.

"I got great reviews," he said. "It was a complete departure for me to do a dramatic role, and I thought it would make me a whole new career. So what happened? I didn't work for a year."

That was the lowest point in his history. He seriously considered ending his career as a performer.

Shortly afterward, his agent landed him a job in a John Steinbeck play on Omnibus. Director Norman Foster saw it, tabbed him as a prospect for Davy Crockett, but Walt Disney found a young Texan named Fess Parker. While Buddy was on a dancing date in Florida, he got a proposal for him to play Davy's pal.

The rest is familiarly history. Buddy is now under contract to Disney, but has the right to do outside projects.

EAGLE-EYED JURY

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., (UP) — An all-male jury took only 10 minutes yesterday to acquit shapely Mrs. Eldridge Keener of drunken driving charges.

The jurors didn't even notice that the state had reduced the charge to reckless driving just before they began their deliberations.

Will Try to Push Gas Bill Through

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
WASHINGTON, (UP) — Sen. Paul H. Douglas will try to push the Senate which could use supporters' hopes of pushing the controversial natural gas bill through Congress.

The Illinois Democrat, who is leading opposition to the measure, announced he will propose a substitute bill. He also told a reporter he has several amendments to offer when the bill reaches the voting stage.

While Douglas did not say his substitute version and amendments obviously are aimed at killing chances of congressional approval of the original bill.

The bill as now written, debated for the fourth day, would exempt independent natural gas producers from direct federal price control. The bill cleared the house last year on a close 200-190 vote.

Supporters of the measure want to get an identical one through the Senate this coming week. Congressional action without passing the issue again in the House, the House would have to consider any changes.

Douglas' substitute would continue the present law but exempt from federal control the small producers who produce less than two billion cubic feet of gas annually. The effect, Douglas said, would be to remove federal control from 90 per cent of the producers producing only 10 per cent of the total gas and retain control over the large producers turning out 90 per cent of the gas.

The first votes in the controversy probably will not come until late next week.

After three days of speeches by senators who favor lifting federal control, opponents late yesterday began their counterattack.

Sen. John O. Rostore (D-R.I.) charged the bill seeks solely to benefit gas producers and gives "nothing more than lip service" to consumers. Opponents charge that lifting federal regulation would lead to increase in gas prices, but supporters deny this.
